“If I put you over there in justice I want to you to find the answer to two questions for me: One, who killed JFK. And two, are there UFOs.” □ Deputy Attorney General Webster Hubbell speaking in his book “Friends in High Places” about a request from President Clinton. □

After six and one half years of waiting, the Clinton Library in Little Rock, Arkansas has just released 7,663 pages of files on the assassination of former President John Kennedy in 1963. The files are being released in reply to an FOIA filed in February 2006. The Clinton Library is in charge of releasing the files of the Clinton administration to the public.

I became aware of this file release on the same day as the release of the ‘perversion files’ released by the Boy Scouts of America. For this reason the Clinton release will probably not get much attention. The release of the sexually related criminal activity in Boy Scout files is exactly what every news media executive is always waiting for. Reporters will be tripping over each other getting to the grimy details.

Despite the probable lack of attention by the mainstream media, the release of these files should be big news inside the UFO community. This is because, unless a researcher has been asleep for the last 20 years, he or she knows that President Clinton gave orders to his friend Webster Hubbell to get the facts related to two great mysteries – UFOs and the Kennedy assassination.

Kennedy

One of the great stories in presidential history is the story of Bill Clinton and his perceived fateful connection with President John Kennedy.

Clinton was not afraid to display the seeming connection. Once in the White House Clinton employed the Kennedy connection playing video clips of Kennedy on a huge screen at a musical extravaganza the night before his inauguration. This was followed by a well publicized visit to Kennedy's grave during his first days in Washington. He made a clear reference tying himself to Kennedy in his first State of the Union address as two presidents leading a "great national march."

Reporters even made reference to the many gifts they shared such as youth and energy, and the one negative thing they shared – the better-left-unlearned lessons that both had to womanize and think they could get away with it.

Even when it came to UFOs Clinton would draw a connection to President Kennedy. Dr. Steven Greer, who headed up the Disclosure Project, had many contacts inside the Clinton administration and was trying to get the Clinton administration to disclose the truth about UFOs. One day, in 1994, a friend of Bill(FOB) came to him and said although the President and others agreed that the truth should come out, Greer would have to do it on his own. "I won't do it," Clinton told the FOB," because I'll end up like Jack Kennedy."

The Clinton fascination for Kennedy started early and was set in concrete in July 1963 when the

16 year old Bill

Clinton travelled to Washington D.C as part of a Boys Nation retreat. Part of the five day event involved attending a White House ceremony with the President. Before leaving Bill promised his mother that he would come home with a picture with the President. Once there the future president worked his way to the front row of seats in the Rose Garden.

Bill got into the right spot once Kennedy had finished speaking, he jumped up and reached out to shake President Kennedy's hand. Then, as if fated by history, the White House photographer was ready and captured the handshake between the President and future President. As he arrived home clutching his picture for his mother she would later comment to others, "I knew right then that politics was the answer for him."

It was a picture that would change Clinton life and tie him directly to Kennedy. Kennedy would be assassinated only a couple months after the picture was taken and high school senior Clinton suddenly became one of the few in the Hot Springs, Arkansas area to ever have met Kennedy. The teenage Clinton became a sought after speaker in all the Kiwanis, Rotary, and other clubs in town talking about Kennedy and politics.

Later, as President, Clinton would give a speech to the Boys Nation (which because of evolution in thought had become the Boys and Girls Nation) high school students who had travelled to Washington in 1996. In that speech Clinton would include his own version of an alien invasion that could unify the world. This alien invasion reference was made famous by Ronald Reagan who used variations of it at least a half speeches while president.

Clinton's version given to the Boys and Girls Club stated,

Very interesting, don't you think, that this movie, Independence Day, is becoming the most successful movie ever? Some say it's because they blew up the White House and the Congress (laughter) and that may be. But, you know, you see story after story after story about how the movie audiences leap up and cheer at the end of the movie when we vanquish the alien invaders, right? I mean, what happened? The country was flat on its back, the rest of the world was threatened, and you see all over the world all these people have all of a sudden put aside the differences that seem so trivial once their existence was threatened, and they're working together all over the world to defeat a common adversary.[1]

With Clinton's Kennedy fascination and his instruction to Hubbell to find out who killed Kennedy, it should come as no surprise that there are so many pages on the Kennedy assassination collected by the Clinton administration thirty years after the event.

Although it is not yet known what is in the files, it is interesting to note that there were "1,152 pages that were restricted in whole or in part." Of these 951 pages were withheld for a P1 exemption which consists of "National Security Classified Information."

Once researchers have had a chance to go through all the files, we will have a better understanding if Clinton got an answer to who killed his boyhood hero President John F. Kennedy, or if as Clinton stated to an audience in Hong Kong in 2005, "I wouldn't be the first American president that underlings have lied to, or that career bureaucrats have waited out..."[2]

UFOs

Clinton's direction to Hubbell also involved finding the answer to the UFO mystery. Hubbell reported back according to his book that “I had looked at both, but wasn’t happy at the answers I was getting.”

Hubbell was later questioned again by film producer James Fox, and all he would say is “You will have to talk to Bill Clinton.” Recently reporter Billy Cox attempted to get Hubbell to explain what had happened by asking him a question about a long time CIA official, Chase Brandon, who came forward in 2012 to say that he had seen a box at CIA headquarters that confirmed that the 1947 Roswell crash as an extraterrestrial event.

At first Hubbell looked like he was ready to talk. “Thanks for your inquiry,” Hubbell replied. “All of your questions will be answered.” Later, however, when directly being asked about Clinton’s request to find out about UFOs the cheese on Hubbell’s cracker appeared to slide off, “I think I made myself clear. No interviews, and that the answers to all your questions will be revealed. Have a good day.”[3]

The Clinton connection to the subject of UFOs has been clearly recorded by history. The Clintons, as one CIA connected source reported “were on the prowl for UFOs. Bill Clinton had been asking anyone who would listen to him, to tell him the secret. You know, he would get some Admiral in there, and say ‘By the way, tell me the UFO secret.’ They would just look at him like ‘What planet are you from?’”

During his administration Clinton allowed his science advisor to meet with billionaire Laurance Rockefeller who was appealing for the disclosure of the government’s knowledge of UFOs. Clinton green-lighted a reinvestigation of the 1947 Roswell crash by the USAF.

When their final report came out in 1995 he publically questioned the lack of explanation for the bodies that were reported by witnesses during the Roswell crash. This led to a second Roswell report in which the air force claimed the 1947 body reports were explainable by dummies that were dropped as part of an Air Force experiment in 1953.

Clinton, aided by John Podesta, tried to force out the concealed UFO documents by signing EO 12958 which stated that classified documents should be “marked for declassification 10 years from the date of the original decision” and that anything older than 25 years must be released except in circumstances set out in seven exemptions. The UFO documents escaped this Clinton-Podesta plan despite the fact that in 800 million pages of documents ended up being declassified.

Clinton's fascination with UFO was confirmed further after he had left office and while his wife Hillary was campaigning for president. The incident was reported by Paul Davids, a Hollywood writer and film producer. Davids had some connections to Bill Clinton, as his father Dr. Jules Davids had been Bill Clinton's professor for American Diplomatic History at Georgetown University.

In August 2007 Davids had a chance to attend a pancake fundraiser in the Hamptons for Hillary Clinton's presidential campaign. Bill Clinton reportedly would be there.

It was there, in a 5-10 minute conversation with the former president, Davids presented him with Roswell related material that he had brought along. This included the book "Witness to Roswell" written by Don Schmitt and Tom Carey, "The Roswell Legacy" by Jessie Marcel Jr., and a new affidavit that had been released following the death of Walter Haut, in which Haut confirmed the object had been from outer space and that there had been bodies.

After Davids explained the material he had brought he reported that Clinton took the bag and said, "You know, I've always been really interested in this stuff, and I'm going to read this."
